

As a former Assistant District Attorney and felony prosecutor for the Dallas County District Attorney's Office, Joshua Abrams has experience in complex litigation. He successfully prosecuted 38 jury trials and brings to the firm the same abilities to defend clients in civil litigation throughout state and federal courts.

Joshua is active in the legal community. He has been appointed to the State Bar of Texas Individual Rights and Responsibilities Section Council, and has written articles and lectured for attorneys throughout Texas on topics such as legal ethics, prosecutorial misconduct, and interpreter-based testimony. Joshua is also active in high school mock trial and mentoring programs.

Professional Associations and Memberships

State Bar of Texas
Dallas Bar Association

Areas of Practice

Litigation
General liability
Personal injury
Business
Professional liability
Securities arbitration
Property damage
Employers' liability
Products liability

Education

J.D., Syracuse University College of Law
Syracuse, New York, 2013

B.A., The George Washington University
Washington, DC, 2010

Bar & Court Admissions

Texas
U.S. District Court Northern District of Texas